

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

For more information contact:

Dawn Caldwell

Assistant Village Manager

815-886-0279

dcaldwell@romeoville.org

May 24, 2013

Romeoville Attracts Area Developers

Area developers and local officials recently attended Romeoville's 12th Annual Economic Development Forum at the Lewis University Airport.

The Economic Forum, hosted by the Romeoville Economic Development Commission, showcased available sites in Romeoville and provided an outstanding networking opportunity for developers and local officials. The crowd listened attentively to McDonald's Senior VP Jim Carras speak about the familiar fast food restaurant, its steady growth and plans for future growth and improvements.

The second speaker of the morning was Metrostudy's Director of Midwest Markets, Chris Huecksteadt, who provided an overview on today's residential real estate industry and what it means for tomorrow.

"The future of Romeoville is filled with new and exciting retail developments. The new Athletic and Event Center, which is under construction, will provide greater retail opportunities along the Route 53 corridor," said Mayor Noak.

For information on Romeoville or for a list of available properties, please visit www.romeoville.org/economic-opportunities

Attendees of the 12th Annual Economic Development Forum network with other developers and local officials.

McDonald's Senior VP, Jim Carras

Chris Huecksteadt, Director, Midwest Markets, Metrostudy, A Hanley Wood Company